

Society telelearning program debuts

The National MS Society's new telelearning program offers free presentations by experts in multiple sclerosis on a range of topics important to people affected by the disease. These topics include MS research, employment, financial planning, cognitive issues, bladder and bowel challenges, sex and MS, gender differences in MS, and how to maximize doctor's visits.

Presentations are followed by a Q&A session, in which attendees can text questions or ask them via phone. Call 1-800-344-4867 or visit nationalMSSociety.org/telelearning to view the full schedule, register or view archived presentations.
